CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Ill., January 8.—Grain prices were uniformily weaker here to-day at the close on profit-taking sales. Provisions ruded lower in response to an expected increase in live hog shipments. Change of sentiment from bullishness at the opening in the wheat pit produced marked results, prices at the lop point being out from 19,24c. compared with the best marks of the day.

The leading futures ranged as follows:

Kenbridge Market.

Kenbridge, Va., January S.—Tho Kenbridge, Va., January S.—Tho Kenbridge tobacco market, which is now only on its second year, starts off with every prospect for a good year's work. The market has attracted the attention of farmers because of the good prices obtained and the promptness with which the business has been handled. A. B. Hobgood will represent the American Tobacco Company on this market this year, succeeding J. W. Lea, Mr. Lea having tendered his resignation to become an independent buyer.

Several of the buyers here have large orders for the dark tobaccos, and the indications are that the market the indications are that the market will this year sell largely more of that type than heretofore.

A VIRGINIA CONCERN.

The Life Insurance Company of Virginia Makes Another Big Record for a Year. The Life Insurance Company of Virginia is one of the strictly Richmond concerns, or perhaps it should be said one of the Virginia concerns, to which not only Richmond, but all of Virginia, points with pride. Richmond and all or Virginia take pride in this company because it is strictly a Virginia Institution, built up to its present mammoth proportions by Virginia capital, Virginia energy, Virginia business foresight and Virginia loyalty to all good things that are Virginian. This company started business about forty years ago, and went up against heavy odds and all kinds of opposition from the uttermost parts of the earth. In the field it undertook to work it had to encounter competitors backed by Northern and English capital world without end, but the company's

In the field it undertook to work it had to encounter competitors backed by Northern and English capital world without end, but the company's incorporators had an idea that there was no better location for a great enterprise of its character than Virginia, and there could be found in Virginia no better place for a home office than Richmond.

Richmond and all Virginia rallied to the support of the business men who were behind the movement to establish here a home life insurance company, men who were capable of teaching the North and the whole world that there was life in the old land yet. All of the great South too, true to its war-time loyalty to the "dark and bloody ground." rallied to the support of the strictly Southern life insurance company, and while sentiment cuts but a poor figure when one comes to provide by the way of life insurance for loved ones, there was to a certain extent a disposition on the part of Southern a Southern institution, as the volume of wages paid.

The 312 cotton, woolen and silk wills report authorized capital of $51,083,550, and the employment of $1,143,511 spindles, 55,682 looms, and $1,03,355 horsepower. There are 55,129 employes, of which 31,791 are males, reported in the mills for a livelihood is 154,382.

The estimated number of persons dependent on the mills for a livelihood is 154,382.

The reports show general improvement in the financial condition of employes. There is also improvement in the financial condition of employes.
